Why Management?

The demand for management graduates and post graduates has been growing consistently over past two decades. During this period, there has been a significant change in the way businesses are being run and grown. Quantifiable way of doing things, along with structured common sense, has influenced the thoughts and actions of most successful businesses. These qualities are naturally inculcated into those pursuing BBA / MBA studies.

The present demand for management graduates is evident from the fact that over 1 lakh students appear for undergraduate management entrance examinations every year, and more than double of that number, for similar postgraduate courses.

Management graduation over other streams

Management graduation provides an early exposure to key business functions like marketing, finance, operation, systems and human resources. In addition, challenging course curriculum, periodic assignments and performance assessment contribute to the effective grooming of students, the program also enhances an extrovert nature and multitasking ability. This combination provides a stepping stone to students to pursue their post-graduation in management later.

Joining a right institute

While a lot of institutes provide graduation in management, only a handful provide a wholesome mix of experienced faculty with industry affiliation, good peer group from reputed colleges and quality exposure to corporate life through field visits and summer internships. Hence, choice of a reputed institute is of utmost importance to add strong credibility to a student's profile.
