► Management

The growing scale of business, blurring geographical boundaries, emerging global opportunities & quantified way of doing things have contributed to the spike in demand for management professionals. Early exposure to management skills at an Undergraduate level (BBA/BMS) can help young and ambitious students to establish themselves as senior management professionals in the long run. Hence, BMS/BBA is considered a precursor to MBA.

BBA/BMS graduates can pursue an MBA or start a career as trainee managers in private organisations. Public sector undertakings like banks, railways, etc. have also started hiring BBA graduates.
